

From the desk of Craig Fyfe, Your Travel Expert

I am so excited to be sitting here writing to you today. My first newsletter in over 12 months. Covid has had a major impact on the travel industry and this has been particularly challenging for a small family-owned business such as mine.

I've been busy processing refunds for my clients, and I am proud to say that I have been successful in either refunding or protecting my clients' funds so that they are not out of pocket. A key advantage of booking with me as opposed to on-line.

As we look to the future, there is hope on the horizon. Apart from a wide range of domestic options now available. Qantas will commence operations to London, Los Angeles, Fiji and Singapore from Sydney next month along with additional services to New Zealand. Flights aside, we hopefully will have a reinvigorated cruise industry commencing operations early next year - if not sooner.

You are receiving this newsletter because at some point you have had contact with Your Travel Expert either as a client or I have met you at an event or function that we have attended. It is my intention to release a newsletter on the first weekend of each month where I will showcase a range of products to introduce you to and interesting information on where the travel industry is going as well as how you can travel safely.

You can be assured that Your Travel Expert is exactly what the name says it is. I will continue to provide professional, knowledgeable service, ensuring that your travel arrangements are tailored to your specific requirements - exactly what they should be. Carefully curated to be "Anything but Ordinary".

Travel truly is a gift. I look forward sharing my over 25 years' experience and love of travel with you. Whether a quick getaway, cruise or extended holiday - your continued support and loyalty mean so much to me and I cannot wait to book your next trip!
